

Diaphanous!

Translucent -----

Yes! Translucent –Michael Jackson ceded to death on Thursday, June 25, 2009 – caused the “Me” in “Me” to reflect on inevitabilities and human frailty –delicate times! And delicate was he –amidst musical virtuosos he was the guru and most creative - understood the rhythm in life and the aesthetics of vibrations seated inside the human spirit –fluidity – and his moves and dance steps cannot be duplicated – an empowering genius – setting his stage and elevated all within his scope – a perfectionist and a magician among his peers and the music industry – knew what was marketable – A maestro – Yes! A maestro ---

Captured the 21st century – indelible so – and if you want to point a finger or live your life through him – reflect on the body and scope of his works in honorable terms – Then! Hold fast and think about these Historic facts –on the day of his demise June 25.

In 1941 President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued executive order 8802 establishing Fair Employment Practices – (forbidding racial bias in war industries and government practices)

In 1919 Marcus Garvey and the U.N.I.A. launched the Black Star line.

In 1948 Joe Louis was crowned World Heavyweight champion.

And

On that day in 1972 Thomas Peters died. He was an African American Slave who led Black emigrants from Nova Scotia to settle in Sierra Leone ----

And In

1908 Beatrice Murphy editor and author was born ---

And on that Day

June 25, 1975 Mozambique became independent.

And remember Guitarist Johnny Smith was born June 25th, 1922.

Do not entangle self in wanton attacks – be wise -

Be honorable! Pay Homage –

Respect and understand the Human Spirit –

He created his foot prints which defined him in relationship to the world society with elasticity –

Research – Peek it! And you might learn more –

He who was whisked off stood up

The womb opens

The harvest is plenty

The torch is lit

We salute you Michael Jackson (Peace be unto You)

DIAPHANOUS!
